

MADISON COUNTY POLICY AND PROCEDURES

Subject: Compliance Policy:
False Claims Act and Whistleblower Provisions

Issued: September 24, 2012

Approved: December 27, 2012

Revised: August 26, 2014

August 16, 2016

Purpose:

Madison County is committed to prompt, complete, and accurate billing of all services provided to individuals. Madison County and its employees, contractors, and agents shall not make or submit any false or misleading entries on any claim forms. No employee, contractor, or agent shall engage in any arrangement or participate in such arrangement at the direction of another person, including any supervisor or manager, that results in the submission of a false or misleading entry on claims forms or documentation of services that result in the submission of a false claim.

It is the policy of Madison County to detect and prevent fraud, waste, and abuse in federal healthcare programs. This policy explains the Federal False Claims Act (31 USC, sections 3729-3733), the Administrative Remedies for False Claims (31 USC, chapter 38, sections 3801-3812), the New York State False Claims Act (State Finance Law, sections 187-194), and other New York State laws concerning false statements or claims and employee protections against retaliation. This policy also sets forth the procedures Madison County has put into place to prevent any violations of federal or New York State laws regarding fraud or abuse in its health care programs.

This policy applies to all employees, including management, contractors, and agents (Class A contractors are those that provide direct health and medical services (i.e. therapists, physicians), while Class B represents all other contractors. For purposes of this policy, a Class A contractor or agent is defined as:

- Any contractor, subcontractor, agent, or other person which or who, on behalf of the County, furnishes or otherwise authorizes the furnishing of Medicare and/or Medicaid health care items or services, performs billing or coding functions; or
- Any contractor, subcontractor, agent, or other person who provides administrative or consultative services, goods or services that are significant and material, are directly related to health care provision, and/or are included in or are a necessary component of providing items or services of Medicaid-funded programs; or
- Any contractor, subcontractor, agent, or other person who is involved in the monitoring of health care provided by the County.

Overview of Relevant Laws:

The False Claims Act (31 USC, sections 3729-3733)

The False Claims Act is a federal law designed to prevent and detect fraud, waste, and abuse in federal healthcare programs, including Medicaid and Medicare. Under the False Claims Act, anyone who “knowingly” submits false claims to the government is liable for damages up to three times the amount of the erroneous payment, plus mandatory penalties of $5,000 to $10,000 for each false claim submitted.

The law was revised in 1986 to expand the definition of “knowingly” to include a person who:

- Has actual knowledge of falsity of information in the claim;
- Acts in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information in the claim; and
- Acts in reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information in a claim.

False claims suits can be brought against individuals and entities. The False Claims Act does not require proof of a specific intent to defraud the government. Providers can be prosecuted for a wide variety of conduct that leads to the submission of a false claim.

Some examples include:

- Knowingly making false statements;
- Falsifying records;
- Submitting claims for services never performed or items never furnished;
- Double-billing for items or services;
- Using false records or statements to avoid paying the government;
- Falsifying time records used to bill Medicaid; or
- Otherwise causing a false claim to be submitted.

Whistleblower or “Qui Tam” Provisions

In order to encourage individuals to come forward and report misconduct involving false claims, the False Claims Act contains “Qui Tam” or whistleblower provision.

The government, or an individual citizen acting on behalf of the government, can bring actions under the False Claims Act. An individual citizen, referred to as a whistleblower or “Relator”, who has actual knowledge of allegedly false claims may file a lawsuit on behalf of the U.S. Government. If the lawsuit is successful, and provided certain legal requirements are met, the whistleblower may receive an award ranging from 15% - 30% of the amount received.

Employee Protections

The False Claims Act prohibits discrimination by Madison County against any employee for taking lawful actions under the False Claims Act. Any employee who is discharged, demoted, harassed, or otherwise discriminated against because of lawful acts by the employee in false claims actions is entitled to all relief necessary to make the employee whole. Such relief may include reinstatement, double back pay, and compensation for any special damages, including litigation costs and reasonable attorney fees.

Administrative Remedies for False Claims (31 USC, chapter 38, sections 3801-3812)

This federal statute allows for administrative recoveries by federal agencies, including the Department of Health and Human Services, which operates the Medicare and Medicaid Programs.

MADISON COUNTY POLICY AND PROCEDURES

The law prohibits the submission of a claim or written statement that the person knows or has reason to know is false, contains false information, or omits material information. The agency receiving the claim may impose a monetary penalty of up to $5,500 per claim and damages of twice the amount of the original claim.

Unlike the False Claims Act, a violation of this law occurs when a false claim is submitted, not when it is paid. Also, unlike the False Claims Act, the determination of whether a claim is false, and imposition of fines and penalties is made by the administrative agency, and not by prosecution in the federal court system.

New York State Laws

A. Civil and Administrative Laws

New York State False Claims Act (State Finance Law, sections 187-194)

The New York State False Claims Act closely tracks the Federal False Claims Act. It imposes fines on individuals and entities that file false or fraudulent claims for payment from any state or local government, including health care programs such as Medicaid. The penalty for filing a false claim is $6,000-$12,000 per claim, and the recoverable damages are between two and three times the value of the amount falsely received. In addition, the false claim filer may be responsible for the government's legal fees.

The government, or an individual citizen acting on behalf of the government (a "Relator"), can bring actions under the New York State False Claims Act. If the suit eventually concludes with payments back to the government, the party who initiated the case can recover 15%-30% of the proceeds, depending upon whether the government participated in the suit. The New York State False Claims Act prohibits discrimination against an employee for taking lawful actions in furtherance of an action under the Act. Any employee who is discharged, demoted, harassed, or otherwise discriminated against because of lawful acts by the employee in furtherance of an action under the False Claims Act is entitled to all relief necessary to make the employee whole.

Social Service Law, section 145(b), False Statements

It is a violation to knowingly obtain or attempt to obtain payment for items or services furnished under any Social Services program, including Medicaid, by use of a false statement, deliberate concealment, or other fraudulent scheme or device. The state or the local Social Services district may recover up to three times the amount of the incorrectly paid claim. In the case of non-monetary false statements, the local Social Services district or state may recover three times the amount incorrectly paid. In addition, the Department of Health may impose a civil penalty of up to $2,000 per violation. If repeat violations occur within five years, a penalty of up to $7,500 may be imposed if they involve more serious violations of the Medicaid rules, billing for services not rendered, or providing excessive services.

Social Service Law, section 145(c), Sanctions

If any person applies for or receives public assistance, including Medicaid, by intentionally making a false or misleading statement, or intending to do so, the person's and the person's family needs are not taken into account for a period of six months to five years, depending upon the number of offenses.

Penal Law, Article 177, Health Care Fraud

This Article establishes the crime of Health Care Fraud. A person commits such a crime when, with the intent to defraud Medicaid (or other health plans, including non-governmental plans), he/she knowingly provides false information or omits material information for the purpose of requesting payment for a health care item or service and, as a result of the false information or omission, receives such a payment in an amount to which he/she is not entitled. Health Care Fraud is punished with fines and jail time, based on the amount of payment inappropriately received due to the commission of the crime.

New York Labor Law, section 740

An employer may not take any retaliatory personnel action against an employee if the employee discloses information about the employer's policies, practices, or activities to a regulatory, law enforcement, or other similar agency or public official.

This law offers protection to an employee who:

- Discloses, or threatens to disclose, to a supervisor or to a public body an activity, policy, or practice of the employer that is in violation of law, rule, or regulation that presents a substantial and specific danger to the public health or safety, or which constitutes health care fraud (knowingly filing, with intent to defraud, a claim for payment that intentionally has false information or omissions);
- Provides information to, or testifies before, any public body conducting an investigation, hearing, or inquiry into any such violation of a law, rule, or regulation by the employer; or
- Objects to, or refuses to participate in, any such activity, policy, or practice in violation of a law, rule, or regulation.

The employee's disclosure is protected under this law only if the employee first brought up the matter with a supervisor and gave the employer a reasonable opportunity to correct the alleged violation. The law allows employees who are the subject of a retaliatory action to bring a suit in state court for reinstatement to the same, or an equivalent position, any lost back wages, benefits and attorneys' fees. If the employer is a health care provider and the court finds that the employer's retaliatory action was in bad faith, it may impose a civil penalty of $10,000 on the employer.

New York Labor Law, section 741

Under this law, a health care employer may not take any retaliatory action against an employee if the employee discloses certain information about the employer's policies, practices, or activities to a regulatory, law enforcement, or other similar agency or public official. Protected disclosures are those that assert that, in good faith, the employee believes constitute improper quality of patient care.

The employee's disclosure is protected under this law only if the employee first brought up the matter with a supervisor and gave the employer a reasonable opportunity to correct the alleged violation, unless the danger is imminent to the public or patient and the employee believes in good faith that reporting to a supervisor would not result in corrective action. If the employer takes a retaliatory action against the employee, the employee may sue in state court for reinstatement to the same, or an equivalent position, any lost back wages and benefits and attorneys' fees. If the employer is a health care provider and the court finds that the employer's retaliatory action was in bad faith, it may impose a civil penalty of $10,000 on the employer.
