The Chenango Canal Towpath Trail is an unpaved path that stretches from Solsville through Bouckville, around Woodman Pond into the Village of Hamilton and is about 7 miles from end to end. There is a fishing deck at the Bouckville entrance. The Canal is a popular place for Brown Trout fishing. Completed in 1837, the canal was originally designed to connect the coal mines of Pennsylvania to the Erie Canal. The Leland Reserve is an 18-acre property with a 0.9 mile interpretive trail that highlights key natural resources and conservation practices. Explore 3/4 mile of trails along wetlands, open fields of wildflowers, a century-old orchard, and an evergreen stand at the Madison Lane Walking Path.

Mt. Hope features 65 acres of land for fishing, hiking, mountain biking, cross country skiing, and camping. The reservoir served as the original source of water for drinking, fire protection, and industrial needs for Oneida. Mt. Hope was listed on the National Registry for Historic Places in 1997. The loop around the reservoir is approximately 1 mile. The reservoir is also open for canoeing and kayaking. The reservoir is about 2,500 feet long and ranges from 100-250 wide.
